Guilty plea to free seized animals

Some of 134 rescues can now be prepared for adoption

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

The Jefferson County woman charged earlier this month with the neglect of two pit bull mix dogs in her care — leading to the seizure of 134 animals from her property — has pleaded guilty in Jefferson Superior Court under an agreement that will see her surrender all animals in the case and pay full restitution.

Vickie Gorrell, 59, of Lexington, was facing two counts of neglect of an invertebrate animal, both Class A misdemeanors, in connection with the two malnourished pit bull cross dogs who were removed from her property Jan. 15.

Under terms of the agreement, Gorrell pleaded guilty to both charges with Count 1 carrying a 365-day sentence in the county jail and Count 2 adding another 180 days with the sentences running consecutively for a combined 545 day sentence. However, Gorrell was given credit for two days jail served and two days good time and had the remaining 541 days probated under strict conditions.

Among the terms of Gorrell's probation, she will surrender all 134 animals, pay restitution in full for the medical care and boarding of all animals removed from her property from the time of their seizure until Wednesday's hearing and she will not be allowed to own, possess or care for any vertebrate animal for the duration of the probation.

A night for thought as community studies vaping

Concerned parents and students (upper left) joined school officials, health care professionals, law enforcement and other citizens Tuesday night to learn more about the recent vaping issues at Madison Consolidated High School during presentations and a Q&A at Ivy Tech Community College. JC Kimmer (lower left) and Molly Dodge were focused on the topic as Kimmer's son, Cole, enjoyed a snack. Jefferson County Sheriff Dave Thomas (right), Madison School Resource Officer John Wallace (center) and Madison SRO Tim Armstrong (left) listened intently as the dangers of vaping were discussed. Structure near head of Heritage Trail OKd for demolition

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

Madison's Historic District Board of Review cleared the way for the demolition of an unoccupied structure near the head of the Madison Heritage Trail at its meeting Monday night.

The structure, at 9041/2 W. Third St., has been unoccupied for several years and has fallen into disrepair. The Heritage Trail Conservancy closed on the 0.15-acre site, including a house and outbuilding, for $25,000 last month after hoping to acquire the property for at least a decade.

The plan now is to tear down the house and outbuilding, remove asphalt and concrete slabs and return the area to green space as part of the overall area that serves as the head of the trail, said Bob Green, executive director of the Heritage Trail Conservancy.

"It's just a postage stamp site but it is so critical to our conservancy," Green told board members Monday. "It's the keystone — the centerpiece."

Green said having ownership of the property and the site cleared gives the Heritage Trail Conservancy control of all property in the area of the trailhead and allows the group to develop or leave undeveloped that area in a way that best serves the Heritage Trail and the people who use it.

The purchase, said Green, was made possible by a contribution from the Grote Lamplighter Club, the fundraising organization of Grote Manufacturing's salaried employees that was created in 1979 and has benefited a number of local projects and organizations over the years. He said additional help was provided by Arvin Sango and Dr. Paul Cronen.

Green said with the addition of the 0.15-acre site, the Heritage Trail Conservancy now owns about 23 acres in downtown Madison — all in green space set aside for public use including the trail system that runs from the Ohio River front to the hilltop.

The board voted unanimously in favor of the demolition application, citing the fact that the building was in disrepair and that its age and design were not assets to the Madison historic district. The property is zoned R-8 for Medium Density Residential but since the site is in the city's flood plain, the board cautioned that any redevelopment of the site could face challenges because of that status.

Link Luddington, a former member of the Board of Review who was attending Monday's meeting, commented briefly on behalf of the application, noting the structures to be demolished were "non-contributing" properties in terms of historic value while the Heritage Trail is one of the city's best assets.

Josh Wilber, chairman of the Board of Review, told Green the Heritage Trail Conservancy was now clear to move forward with demolition.

Madison's Historic District Board of Review gave approval for the demolition of this unoccupied structure near the head of the Madison Heritage Trail at its meeting Monday night. The structure, at 904 1/2 W. Third St., sits on a 0.15-acre site that will be returned to green space, said Bob Green, executive director of the Heritage Trail Conservancy. Defendant: Judges shot in self-defense

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — A man charged with shooting two southern Indiana judges outside of an Indianapolis fast food restaurant last year said in a Tuesday court filing that he acted in self-defense. The filing says Brandon Kaiser was pulling on a locked door and trying to enter a downtown White Castle when the judges approached him "in a hostile manner," slammed him to the ground, choked him, beat him and kicked him in the head. "The defendant, who was repeatedly beaten, choked and slammed around, was reasonable to fear that this assault would result in his death or injury," the notice of affirmative defense said. Kaiser faces 14 charges, including four felony counts of aggravated battery, in connection with the May 1 shooting of Clark County judges Andrew Adams and Brad Jacobs. The Indiana Commission on Judicial Qualifications announced disciplinary charges in October against Adams, Jacobs and Crawford Circuit Court Judge Sabrina Bell, who was also present during the incident. The judges, who were in Indianapolis for a judicial conference, had been bar-hopping before going to the restaurant. They were outside the restaurant when Kaiser and his nephew Alfredo Vazquez drove by in an SUV. Court documents say one of the men yelled something out a window that prompted Bell to give them the middle finger. Vazquez parked the SUV and a verbal altercation turned violent. Kaiser drew a weapon and shot Adams in the stomach, documents in the disciplinary and criminal cases say. Kaiser then shot Jacobs twice in the chest. Kaiser and Vazquez then drove away. A jury trial has been scheduled for March 16. A grand jury indicted Adams for his role in the fight. Adams, who admitted to kicking Kaiser, pleaded guilty in September to a misdemeanor count of battery but avoided jail time. Vazquez was sentenced to 180 days on home detention and a year on probation for violating probation and for misdemeanor battery.

Handheld phone ban on drivers advances

INDIANAPOLIS — A proposal that would ban motorists from using handheld cellphones on Indiana roads appears on its way to becoming law. The Indiana Senate voted 43-4 Tuesday in favor of the bill that supporters say is aimed at making roadways safer by combating distracted driving. House members endorsed last month a similar version of the bill that would permit cellphone use only with hands-free or voice-operated technology, except in emergencies. The measure would broaden the state's current ban on texting while driving that officials say is unenforceable and doesn't include actions such as emailing and using Snapchat or other apps. Republican Sen. Michael Crider of Greenfield, the bill sponsor, said 21 other states with similar laws have seen reductions in the number of crashes. "This is the right thing to do," Crider said. "I can't think of a single phone call that is important enough for anybody to take the chance on taking a life." Distracted driving was to blame in at least 860 injury crashes and 48 crashes with deaths across Indiana last year, according to state police. Republican Sen. Jean Leising of Oldenburg argued the tougher law would unfairly affect those who drive older vehicles without hands-free technology and that the maximum potential $500 fine was excessive. "We have so much government, folks," she said. "This is another layer." The House must still give final approval to the bill before it goes to Republican Gov. Eric Holcomb, who has endorsed it.

Teen, 16, charged with murder in slayings

INDIANAPOLIS — A 16-year-old youth was charged Monday with murder as an adult in the fatal shooting of two teenage siblings. Lometreus Sanders faces two counts of murder, dangerous possession of a firearm and carrying a handgun without a license, court records state. Sanders is charged in the Aug. 23 slayings of 16-year-old Nicholas Nelson and his 15-year-old sister, Ashlynn Nelson, at their home in an apartment complex on the city's far east side. Sanders, who was 15 at the time of the slayings, initially was charged in juvenile court days after the slaying. He was waived to adult court Thursday. Online court records do not list an attorney for Sanders.

Toddler falls into lake; appears drowning death

BLACKHAWK — A 20-month-old girl apparently drowned after she and another young girl fell into a lake, officials said. Isabella Ellington died Sunday at Terre Haute Regional Hospital from injuries consistent with drowning, said Vigo County Coroner Dr. Susan Amos. The second girl, a 2-year-old, was pulled from the lake and later transferred to an Indianapolis hospital, the Tribune-Star reported. A message left Tuesday seeking information on that child's condition was not immediately returned by police. Vigo County deputies and firefighters from nearby Riley who were called to the scene Sunday afternoon on a report of a possible drowning learned that two girls had fallen into French Lake in southeastern Vigo County near the unincorporated community of Blackhawk. The incident remains under investigation.

Son charged in murder of mom, 91

PORTAGE — A man was charged with murder Tuesday after police said he admitted killing his 91-year-old mother. Charles H. Trumble, 59, of Portage called 911 Sunday evening and told a dispatcher he had just killed the woman, Portage police said. Officers discovered Dixie L. Trumble inside the home the two shared with head trauma, police said. She died at the scene. A weapon believed to have been used in the killing was recovered, police said. A motive for the attack remains unclear, police said. Porter County Coroner Cyndi Dykes said an autopsy was planned. Charles Trumble is being held at the Porter County Jail. Online court records do not list an attorney for him.

Bill to assist rural hospitals clears panel

FRANKFORT — A bill aimed at protecting rural health care by creating a loan program to assist financially struggling hospitals cleared a House committee Tuesday. Hospitals situated in counties with fewer than 50,000 people would be eligible for the loans. The state economic development cabinet would administer the loan program. The bill sailed through the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee without any opposition. It goes to the full House. Its co-sponsors include House Speaker David Osborne. The measure was introduced after the recent announcement that Our Lady of Bellefonte Hospital in northeastern Kentucky will close later this year. Republican Rep. Danny Bentley, the bill's lead sponsor, said more than 60 Kentucky hospitals are in counties with fewer than 50,000 people. More than a dozen are seen as "vulnerable to close," he told the committee. The bill doesn't designate an amount of money to start the loan program. That would be determined by lawmakers later in the session. Under the bill, hospitals receiving the loans could use the money on facilities, staffing or to expand medical services. "This is something that is truly needed," said Republican Rep. Rob Rothenburger. "This is what we're here in Frankfort for, and that's to help our most vulnerable population and have a healthier Kentucky."

U.S. Attorney on law enforcement group

LOUISVILLE — The U.S. Attorney in Louisville has been selected to join a working group that is part of a presidential commission on law enforcement. U.S. Attorney Russell Coleman, whose jurisdiction is the western half of Kentucky, will serve on the Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice Law Enforcement Recruitment and Training Working Group. Coleman said in a release from the U.S. Attorney's office that the working group will explore "critically important challenges of recruitment, retention, and training" of law enforcement officers. The law enforcement commission was created by presidential executive order in October. The commission will focus on studying law enforcement officers who are tasked with reducing crime on a daily basis.

Beam Institute's first bourbon conference

LEXINGTON — The James B. Beam Institute for Kentucky Spirits will hold its first bourbon industry conference this week at the University of Kentucky. The Beam Institute collaborated with the Kentucky Distillers Association to plan the event around key industry issues, according to a statement from the university. The conference will include presentations and discussions on topics such as grains, fermentation, warehousing, and logistics. A panel comprised of representatives from UK, Beam Suntory, and master distillers from multiple distilleries will answer questions about the future of the industry and the Beam Institute. Farmers, distillers and tourism officials are invited to attend. The event is being held Thursday at the University of Kentucky's Gatton Student Center.

Karen Pence to visit Fort Campbell

FORT CAMPBELL — The wife of Vice President Mike Pence will visit Fort Campbell on Friday to highlight new efforts to create employment solutions for military spouses. Karen Pence will be joined by the Secretary of Defense's wife, Leah Esper, in a visit to the Army post on the Kentucky-Tennessee border, according to a statement from the Office of the Second Lady. Pence will speak to military spouses, meet with military leadership and visit the Intrepid Spirit Center at Fort Campbell's art therapy program. Pence launched a campaign in 2018 to promote and encourage military spouses and has been traveling throughout the country to address employment challenges.

Ex-boyfriend indicted in murder, robbery

GEORGETOWN — The former boyfriend of a missing woman was indicted Tuesday on murder and robbery charges, and remains believed to be hers were found in a storage facility, police said. The indictment handed down by a Scott County grand jury charges Joseph Hicks, 53, with killing Sheena Baxter, 32, on Valentine's Day, news outlets reported. Police executed a search warrant Tuesday afternoon at a Richmond storage facility, Georgetown police said in a Facebook post. "Officers discovered what we believe to be the remains of Sheena Baxter," the post said. The remains were taken to the medical examiner's office in Frankfort. Hicks was already in jail after being arrested last week on charges of filing a false police report and tampering with evidence. Police say he reported being shot during an attempted robbery at a store in Georgetown on the day Baxter disappeared, but surveillance video showed he wasn't there. Last week, police searched Hicks' car after receiving a tip and found Baxter's cellphone. A judge issued an emergency protection order and a temporary protection order for Baxter against Hicks in 2018, court records show. It wasn't clear whether Hicks has an attorney.

Two from Floyd arrested in child pornography

David Hilliker

NEW ALBANY — Two Floyd County residents have been arrested on child pornography charges after separate investigations led by the Indiana State Police Internet Crimes against Children task force (ICAC).

On Tuesday, a New Albany man was arrested in a case that began in November of 2019 when ISP investigators received a tip from the Federal Bureau of Investigations that led officers from the Sellersburg ICAC Task Force to interview David Hilliker, 27, of Green Valley Road, New Albany.

Officers requested and were granted a search warrant for Hilliker's residence based on information gathered. As a result of the investigation, Hilliker was charged with possession of child pornography and dissemination of child pornography, both felonies, and lodged at the Floyd County Jail without incident.

On Wednesday, investigators with the ISP's Sellersburg ICAC served a search warrant at another New Albany residence in a separate and unrelated case. This investigation began in July of 2019 after authorities obtained information from the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. As a result, a juvenile male was taken into custody on charges that would equate to possession of child pornography if he were charged as an adult.

Both investigations are ongoing.

Charlie's Beat

Bomar and Ritter one of our hidden local musical gems

By CHARLIE ROHLFING

Doing this music column is a lot like prospecting for gold or precious stones. There's so much sparkling talent veined through the hills and hollers around here, I'm always amazed by what I find.

Case in point, Bob Ritter and Mary Bomar, otherwise known as the folk duo Bomar and Ritter. Bob and Mary live out toward Deputy, just over the line in Scott County on property that has been in his family some four generations back.

"Mary's from Virginia," Bob said, "but I have deep Hoosier roots. I went to Hanover College for a bit, then I played some basketball in Illinois at Olney Central Junior College, then ultimately ended up at Indiana State." At this point I had to ask if he'd ever met Larry Bird when he was there. Turns out he did much more than that.

"I was on the team when ISU went undefeated for the regular season and then met Michigan State and Magic Johnson in the NCAA finals. Larry was a great teammate. I mostly guarded him in practice and sat the bench for games, but I was part of that whole magical run. I'd usually get into the games late and score the hundredth point!"

At various times in their lives Bob and Mary both headed to Nashville to see if they could make their mark on the music world.

Mary Bomar and Bob Ritter

Both had played in various bands and both were honing their skills as songwriters. In 1989 a mutual friend put them together and they started singing and making music together. The recorded their first CD in 1992.

"Eventually we found our way back to Indiana where my roots are," Bob said. "We live in an 1880s farmhouse on the old home property."

Mary explained how they work.

"We play mostly wineries in the tri-state area, plus some down into Tennessee and Virginia where I'm from. And 20 years ago we started a program called 'Lyrics Alive" where we go around to grade schools and work with kids and set their lyrics to music.

"You could say we are living the dream, getting to play and live as professional musicians. We play about 70 to 90 dates a year. But we'd actually like to do more, especially here in Madison. We're best suited to wineries and breweries, small venues where people can focus on the words and the emotion of the songs.

"We like to do songs that mean something to us and thereby touch people's hearts. It's more important to connect than to play larger venues. A fan once told me, 'You all play life affirming music.' That means a lot to us."

And speaking of life affirming music, no article about Bob and Mary would be complete without mentioning their connection to Dan Fogelberg.

"Dan's music is one of the main reasons I started playing," Bob said. "He inspired me to pick up the guitar and learn his songs. So I've always played a lot of Fogelberg in my shows.

"We started going to the Fogelberg Foundation memorial events in Peoria where he was born. In 2011 I started playing at the events, and in 2016 I became an 'endorsed band' of the Foundation." (Fogelberg died in 2007 at the age of 56.)

"Probably the pinnacle of my career so far happened about a year ago near Deer Isle, Maine, where Dan had a summer home. We had this idea to sing his song 'The Reach' on the beach near the actual Eggemoggin Reach where he wrote the song.

"Dan's widow, Jean Fogelberg, is a filmmaker and artist, and she heard about what we were doing. She invited us into her home, the very home where she and Dan lived, fed us lunch, and then went out and filmed us doing the song.

"It was such an amazing experience. Here I was sitting in Dan's favorite chair in Dan's study, then singing one of his songs on the beach while his wife filmed us. It doesn't get any better than that." If you want to see the video just search YouTube with the words 'Bomar Ritter Reach'.

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK:

Thursday at the Taproom the boys are back in town — Snaps for Sinners will be tearing the house down. If you haven't caught this trio yet, do yourself a favor. Our good friend Joe Perkinson, who we usually see as part of a band, has been doing a lot more solo stuff lately.

This weekend you can see him both Friday AND Saturday. Also Saturday at the Red Bike Hall we have a singer-songwriter country artist in the mode of Chris Knight or Tyler Childress, by the name of Ritch Henderson.

Check him out if you like that sorta thing. And Thomas Family is having a rare Sunday show with the Irish-style band The Jeremiahs. Beautiful stuff.

Mother's wedding ring set recovered after 59 years

By SYDNEY REEVES
(Bloomington) Herald-Times

When Philip Barker's younger brother Charles Barker brought his mom's wedding ring to Crisp School in 1943, the 7-year-old had intentions of trading it for something better like a pocket knife or marbles.

Kids traded items all the time, and he wanted in on the fun. After finding a small box at home with his mother's wedding and engagement rings tucked inside, no longer worn by his mother due to arthritis, the light bulb in his head came on.

Somewhere along the way between riding the school bus and arriving to class, the ring disappeared out of his brother's pocket.

"I do recall that my mother questioned both of us about the missing ring, but I do not recall if my mother ever was told what happened to her wedding ring," Barker said recently, after contacting The Herald-Times.

Fast forwarding 59 years, Crisp School attendees had a reunion in 2002. Barker ran into an old friend, Rose Ann Walden, and reminisced about old times. Eventually Walden mentioned that she had found a wedding ring at the end of her driveway many years ago. She had kept it with her throughout the many times she had moved in her life, and still had it all these years later.

Making the connection, Barker mentioned the story of his brother losing his mother's ring. After some investigating, the two realized the inside of the ring was engraved with the date of Nov. 3, 1929, and the initials "C.B. to S.B.," matching his parents' names Calvin Barker and Susie Barker.

Philip Baker poses Thursday with his mother's wedding ring (right), which was lost by his brother in 1943 and returned by Rose Ann Walden in 2002, and a framed painting of the house where the ring was found. (Rich Janzaruk / Herald-Times)

"This ring is your mother's wedding ring," Walden said. "You need to have this ring returned to you."

"My question in my mind: what should I give Rose Ann for keeping the ring safe, from a young girl of 10 for the next 59 years?" Barker said.

The house where the ring had been found was torn down back in 1981, but Barker did have a photo of it. He then had Walden's cousin, Connie Kinder, a local artist, bring the photograph to life — turning the black-and-white image of the run-down house into a colorful canvas painting showcasing the welcoming home it once had been.

Barker traded the framed painting for the ring from Walden on the afternoon of Nov. 3, 2002 — the 73rd anniversary of his parents' wedding.

Recently Barker had the rings appraised by a professional gemologist. The engagement ring has a .15 karat diamond in an 18k white gold setting, while the wedding ring is an 18 karat white gold band. The ring set appraised for $2,150 in today's dollars.

Vaping forum addresses concerns about youth safety

By COLLIN OVERTON
Courier staff writer

While parents and school officials await final lab results about the substances that affected nine students and two employees this month at Madison Consolidated High School, members of the community came together Tuesday night at an educational forum to get answers.

More than 50 people attended the forum, where health and school officials warned parents of the spread, dangers and current state of vaping among youth. The forum was sponsored by Kings' Daughters' Hospital and was at the Madison Ivy Tech campus.

The presentation and Q&A were organized after vaping incidents at the high school earlier this month when nine students and two school personnel were taken by EMS to King's Daughters' Hospital with symptoms tied to contact with e-cigarette substances.

Although students and staff showed symptoms such as fluctuated breathing patterns, elevated heart rate and sometimes a loss of consciousness, preliminary results from the Indiana State Police Toxicology Lab showed no controlled substances detected in the confiscated vapes so far, the school district announced Feb. 25. Final results are pending.

Jefferson County Tobacco Prevention and Cessation Coordinator Kodi Applegate started off Tuesday night by presenting a report on the state of vaping in Jefferson County, in Indiana and nationwide. She said 21.1% of Indiana youth vape, compared to 16.1% across the country.

Applegate walked audiences through the "evolution of e-cigarettes," from cigarette-shaped lookalikes, to refillable vape pens and box mods, to the pod-based systems seen in popular vapes like Juul and NJOY. Breaking down how cartridges work, she said one Juul pod contained as much nicotine as a pack of cigarettes and delivered higher nicotine at a much cheaper rate; a four-pack of cartridges is about $16, which is $10 cheaper than four packs of cigarettes on average. She also said more than a third of adults in Jefferson County smoke or vape, and can purchase tobacco from 35 different retailers throughout the county.

Tobacco companies spend $297 million to market and advertise products in Indiana each year, Applegate said, pointing out the young people and colorful backdrops in ads.

Shannon Stidham, clinical supervisor of respiratory services at KDH, explained how vaping is detrimental to youth and the consequences on a still-developing brain. Nicotine addiction wreaks havoc on the developing brain, she said, affecting attention, learning capacity, mood and impulse control. Vaping nicotine has been shown to increase heart rate, blood pressue and affect recovery time from injuries, she said.

Adults are also reponsible for teens getting their hands on vapes, she said.

"We also have adults who think that it's OK to vape. They think this is an alternative, that this is safer...our kids are not only seeing in the marketing aspect but they're hearing from their parents or other adults," Stidham said.

Madison principal Michael Gasaway gave more details about how two adults and three students were sickened at the high school Feb. 18. One adult, whom he did not identify, had confiscated the vape during a passing period and handed it to an assistant principal without gloves or any protective layer. The adult had passed through a hallway close to the cafeteria, where about 400 students were exiting and came in contact with the airborne substance, he said. The two adults came down with a reaction — one was 45 minutes later — and three students who were passing through exhibited minor symptoms and also were taken to the hospital.

Gasaway said he hopes the problem will be curbed by camera systems now in place in several classrooms and on all the buses, which already have led to several citations. This helps administrators and SROs detect vape hits that teachers can't see.

"Gasaway also noted the school has been laying down the law when it comes to vaping. Madison put new rules into effect Feb. 20. Two students caught on their second offenses the past couple of weeks had been given 10-day suspensions and would face expulsion hearings, Gasaway said. Another vape was found in a student's purse when she tried to enter the high school semi-formal last Saturday.

SRO Tim Armstrong said the school also planned to put vape detectors in the bathrooms, a common spot for students to try to sneak to vape. John Wallace, another Madison SRO, reminded the audience that on the first offense, students are referred to law enforcement and receive a citation, which usually comes with a $150 to $160 fine.

What's made the situation even more complicated, though, were the rumors spreading on social media as news of the incident broke, Gasaway said.

"We had a lot of different posts about teachers allowing students to vape, the teachers that passed out —they were vaping themselves — what bad kids we have at Madison...there are rumors about different things, the different mixtures that these kids were smoking — that's not the case. It's just a normal pod that's causing this — elevated heart rates, dizziness. Well of course that's going to happen, when you hear there's 20 cigarettes in a pod. I don't know if you've ever smoked or not, but that'll cause some dizziness. It's just about being aware and talking about the truths instead of people dramatizing things, and that's the power of social media sometimes in a negative sense. So a teachable moment for our students as well," he said.

Audience questions centered around how parents can detect their kids vaping and how they should handle it.

Stidham said things like sudden weight loss, fruity smells, dry coughs, sores around the mouth, chest pains and increased anxiety could be indicators of a teen who has taken up e-cigarette use.

Applegate then showed parents ways their children could be hiding their vapes, some of which are more discreet than others. Examples were a replica energy drink can designed to house an e-cigarette, a deodorant stick with a space for storing cartridges and a book with a hollowed-out compartment in the middle, all of which were a few dollars on Amazon, she said. Another device she showed was a hoodie from the brand Vaprwear that lets the user load vape juice into one end of the drawstring and inhale vapor on the other end.

Applegate said the attendance among parents was disappointing — nearly half of the people there were associated with the school, county or city — but those who attended seemed surprised by the extent of the effects.

"We weren't too surprised by that because it's kind of hard to get people to educational events...I thought we picked a good time, 5:30, and you would think with this issue, especially in the schools right now and it being local, you would get people there, but I'm not sure what could get them there honestly," Applegate said.

• Guilty plea

The probation also calls for supervision, completion of an online animal rehabilitation program, allowing visits by the county's animal control officer to make sure Gorrell complies with terms of the order and submission to a mental health evaluation.

Superior Court Judge Michael Hensley presided over the hearing and accepted Gorrell's plea after she had met with her court-appointed public defender.

She could have faced additional charges pending the outcome of an ongoing investigation into the various other dogs, cats, chickens, ducks, parakeets, cockatiels, pigs, rabbits and a goat authorities seized from her property on S.R. 356 on Feb. 4.

However, under terms of the plea agreement the prosecution will pursue no additional charges in the case as long as Gorrell complies with terms of her probation.

Prosecutor David Sutter indicated that he is satisfied with the outcome of the case.

"We had three primary goals in this case. The first was to execute the expedient and safe removal of all animals in Ms. Gorrell's care so that they could be provided with adequate food, water, shelter and veterinary care. The second was to ensure a long period of supervision during which Ms. Gorrell would not be in a position of having the care of any animals. The third was to resolve this case quickly so that the 130 plus animals which were removed could be adopted out to appropriate homes," Sutter said in a release. "Although this is a difficult case, I am pleased that we have met those goals."

Sutter said the important thing in the case is that Gorrell will no longer be allowed to own or care for animals and that the dozens of animals that she inadequately cared for will now be available for adoption or fostering after spending the last three weeks being cared for by the Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter, local veterinarians and volunteers.

Earlier this week, Sutter had said he hoped to resolve the case as soon as possible for the benefit of the animals and the local shelter, which has been overrun by the sudden arrival of so many animals with so many needs.

"We're trying to reach an agreement with her to give up the animals as quickly as possible so we can get them out for adoption," Sutter had said.

Sutter's office had received condition reports on all the animals seized from Gorrell's three-acre property and was considering additional charges in the case.

Jeffersonville sends Madison to its 10th-straight loss

Losing streak now program's longest since 1978-79 season

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

JEFFERSONVILLE — lf Madison was hoping to end its historic losing streak on Tuesday, the Cubs came to the wrong place.

Jeffersonville shrugged off a slow start to pull away from Madison and roll to a 69-49 win in boys basketball Tuesday at home.

The loss was Madison's 10th in a row, its longest losing skid since the 1978-79 Cubs lost 12 streaight to close out that season.

Ending that streak against Jeffersonville was going to be a tall order, literally. Six-foot-six Nevada signee Tre Coleman had his way with the Cubs, scoring 26 points and pulling down 15 rebounds while throwing down two rim-rattling dunks. The Red Devils' two smaller guards, 5-foot-9 Caleb Mason and 5-foot-10 Darin Starks, scored 13 and 10 points, respectively, as the trio matched Madison's offensive output all by themselves.

It took two and a half minutes before either team scored and with just under four minutes to play in the first quarter, Jeff held only a 4-2 lead.

But the Red Devils (17-6, 6-1 Hoosier Hills Conference) caught fire over the next four minutes, jumping out to a 15-4 lead before Parker Jones powered his way to the bucket to stop the run for Madison.

But stopping Jeff was temporary. The Devils quickly pushed the lead to 25-8 early in the second period and took a 37-21 advantage into halftime. Jeffersonville then blew open the game in the third quarter, getting two 3-pointers and a dunk by Coleman and another trey by Mason to lead 58-29.

Jeffersonville's lead eventually reached 31 (60-29) early in the fourth period before Red Devils coach Chris Moore began to sub liberally. Madison took advantage by out scoring Jeff 20-9 over the final seven minutes of the game for the final margin.

Whether close to the rim or from 20 feet away, Jeffersonville rarely missed. The Devils were 25-for-48 (52%) overall and 7-of-20 (35%) on 3-point attempts. Their only weakness was at the free-throw line where they hit just 12-of-19 (63%).

Madison, meanwhile, had trouble scoring against the Red Devils' length. The Cubs were 21-for-51 (41%) from the floor and just 4-of-18 (22%) from behind the arc. Madison did hit 60% of its free-throw attempts, but attempted only five.

Junior Luke Miller hit three 3-pointers and scored 11 points to lead Madison while fellow junior Nick Center had nine points and freshman Kaden Oliver scored eight. Eleven different players saw action in the game for the Cubs with eight scoring.

The loss drops Madison to 10-12 overall and the Cubs close out the HHC portion of their schedule with a 1-6 record — a 64-60 win over Jennings County on Dec. 6 the Cubs lone league win. Madison will try to break its losing streak at Switzerland County Thursday in the regular-season finale for both. The Pacers come into the game on a seven-game losing streak.

29th DISTRICT

Both Trimble teams knocked off by Oldham

By ROB LAFARY
Courier Staff Writer
sports@madisoncourier.com

Trimble County saw its girls and boys basketball seasons come to an end Tuesday night with a pair of losses to Oldham County in the 29th District Tournament semifinals at home.

Trimble's girls fought valiantly to chip away at a large deficit in the second half but first-half mistakes ultimately proved to be the deciding factor in a 58-37 loss to Oldham County.

The Lady Raiders were hampered by turnovers early as Oldham built as much as a 33-point lead by midway through the third quarter before Trimble was able to get going and cut the deficit the rest of the way. Trimble's efforts were never doubted by head coach Kerrie Stewart who despite the loss was proud of her team's fight for 32 minutes.

"I told the girls after the game I thought we left everything out on the floor," Stewart said. "We made mistakes no question but we never backed down. We were short-staffed, didn't have our point guard and had another starter who has been out for a couple games. But we were never intimidated. We didn't lay down and die and I'm proud of them."

Making changes in its rotation, Trimble's adjustments took time to gel. The Raiders were plagued by 19 first half turnovers including 10 in the first quarter. Oldham led 10-2 just under the midway mark of the first frame and then finished the first period on a 13-0 run to seize a 23-5 lead. Trimble trailed by 14 after two free throws by Shelby Wilcoxson with 5:42 left in the second quarter but the Lady Colonels again stretched their margin.

A 10-0 run catapulted by six points from Audrey Gast gave way to a 35-11 lead for Oldham and by halftime the advantage was at 25 points. Kayley Batts canned a bucket with just 10 seconds remaining and the Lady Colonels led 39-14 at intermission.

Trimble cut down on its turnovers in the second half, allowing for more positive possessions and outscored Oldham over the final two quarters. Trailing by 27 at the end of the third quarter, the Raiders enjoyed their biggest success of the game in the final Wilcoxson scored her final seven points in the fourth quarter while Addison Edmonson added five. Trimble cut the deficit to 19 points inside the final minute before a late Oldham bucket pushed the lead back to the final 21-point margin.

"We had moments in the first half where we were able to break the press but then we had trouble setting up our offense," Stewart said of the first half. "We weren't able to move the ball and got some five-second calls but I thought the second half was much better overall. Again we had kids that were playing different positions and that's no excuse because we have to get better. But unlike the first time we played them we weren't intimidated and we battled hard."

Oldham (19-11) was led by Kennedi Roehrig with 11 points and 10 other Colonels joined her in the scoring column including Gast, Batts and Lakynn Goldsmith with eight points each.

Wilcoxson led Trimble with 12 points and was 7-of-8 from the free throw line. Edmonson, making her first start of the season despite dealing with a broken nose, added seven points.

Trimble finishes the season at 12-16. Oldham County faces either North Oldham or South Oldham in the 29th District championship game on Friday night. Those two teams were to play Wednesday.

The boys' semifinal took a turn for the worse in the second half for Trimble as mistakes never eased up and Oldham dominated for a 92-41 victory.

Trimble committed 32 turnovers and after never allowing the Colonels to completely pull away in the first half, Oldham outscored the Raiders 49-16 over the final two quarters to punch its ticket to Friday night's district championship game.

Oldham (27-3) took advantage of 11 Trimble turnovers in the third quarter and also canned four 3-pointers in the frame, outscoring the Raiders 35-7. Nick Carter drilled three from beyond the arc while Steven Votaw added seven points in a quarter that saw seven different Colonels score. Oldham's run continued in the fourth period, adding 14 more points to the cause.

The Raiders trailed by 18 points at halftime, managing its two best quarters of offense despite 20 turnovers. Oldham committed eight turnovers in the first quarter and then struggled from the field after an early surge to give Trimble a glimmer of light heading into the second half.

After Reece Webster and Beau Turner scored five points each in the first quarter, Trimble was able to add three more players into the score column to aid the offense in the second frame. With Turner scoreless and battling foul trouble, J.T. Wilcoxson came off the bench and chipped in six points while Webster added four points from the free-throw line. Dylan Jennings canned a 3-pointer and Ryan Long added a free throw.

Webster finished the final game of his historic high school career by leading Trimble with 11 points including a perfect 5-of-5 mark from the free-throw line. He finishes his career with a school record 1,614 points.

Turner closed out his high school career with nine points.

Oldham put four players in double figures with Carter and Xander Wagner-Rose each scoring 14 points. Deaton Oak, the son of former Trimble head coach Doug Oak, and Sam Campbell finished with 13 points and 12 points, respectively.

The Colonels meet the North Oldham/South Oldham winner on Friday night.

Trimble finishes the season at 7-22.

BRIDGE

GATHER INTELLIGENCE BEFORE DECIDING

The Duke of Wellington was discussing war, but with a small change we can make an equally valid point about bridge: All the business of bridge is to endeavor to find out what you don't know by what you do.

In other words, as you play out a deal, you learn more about the opponents' hands and should use this information.

Against four hearts, West led the club 10. East won the first trick with the ace, cashed the club king (the accepted way of showing a doubleton) and exited with a diamond.

With a guaranteed spade loser, declarer had to find the trump queen to make his contract. Assuming West had five clubs to East's two, there were 11 empty spaces in East's hand for the heart queen, but only eight in West's hand. However, those 11-to-8 odds weren't good enough for South. He wanted to find out more about the distribution before committing himself.

Judging that West would have led a singleton diamond if he had one, declarer overtook the diamond king with dummy's ace and discarded his club queen on the diamond queen. Now came the spade queen from the board. East won with the ace and returned a diamond.

South ruffed with the heart ace, cashed the spade king, discarding dummy's club loser, then led the heart eight and ran it. When it won, he repeated the heart finesse, drew West's last trump and claimed.

Why was South so confident about the hearts? Because East had passed as dealer and had already shown up with 11 points: the club ace-king and spade ace. He couldn't hold a queen as well.

PETS OF THE WEEK

ZAN

Zan is a 4-month-old unaltered domestic short hair. He was brought in with his sister and is a little scared at the moment, but he is doing very well at the shelter. He likes to be scratched behind the ears. Being picked up is not his favorite thing, but he will still let people pick him up.

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has four dogs or puppies, and nine cats or kittens available. Pictures of additional pets waiting for adoption can be viewed at www.sisaveapet.com

Normal shelter hours are Monday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 5 p.m., Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday by appointment only. It is closed Tuesday. The shelter number is (812) 273-1788 and the email is animal.shelter39@jefferson-county.in.gov

All cats and kittens are $45 off unless they are already spayed or neutered. Discount is courtesy of the Animal Shelter and the Jefferson County Humane Society.

Volunteers are always welcome at the shelter. Individuals must be at least 16 years old to volunteer. Volunteers can help with everyday cleaning, answering phones, and exercising the pets. Contact the shelter for details.

The shelter is a registered organization with the Kroger Community Rewards program. To support the shelter, register a Kroger card at www.krogercommunityrewards.com and enter FL919.

Support the shelter while walking your dog. Use the "Walk for a Dog" or "Woof-Trax" app available through the App Store or Google Play. For each mile walked, a donation is made to the shelter.

A list of needed items can be found on the shelter website. Donations can be mailed to 2727 Hannah Drive, Madison 47250 or dropped off during shelter hours. The shelter also accepts aluminum and steel cans, which are recycled and the proceeds put toward the medical fund. The shelter asks that aluminum and steel donations be separated. Steel cans should also be rinsed before they are dropped off. Cans can be dropped off at anytime in a bin at the east side of the shelter.

Those with missing pets can stop by the shelter, call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner's name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption.

Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours.

For animal control issues in Madison, call (812) 265-3347. For animal control issues in Hanover and Jefferson County, call (812) 265-2648.

Sleep deprived to sleeping like a baby for person with insomia

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: I am a 65-year-old woman who suffers from insomnia. I exercise regularly, limit my caffeine intake and try to wind down at the end of the day with more relaxing books or TV shows. However, there are still a couple of nights a week when I simply cannot fall asleep.

I'm retired, so I don't have to worry about going to work in the morning, but it's still very frustrating to lie awake for hours, tired but not sleepy. I feel lousy the next day, too.

Which is worse for you, lack of sleep or sleeping pills? Both are said to increase the chance of dementia. If both carry the same risk, then I'm inclined to pop a pill to at least stop the tossing and turning, and drop off to sleep. Does anyone have the answer to this? — Sleepless in Roanoke

Dear Sleepless in Roanoke: There might be a third option here. Melatonin is a natural sleep aid that is considered safe, with few side effects. Couple that with some breathing techniques and you might find yourself dozing off in as little as five minutes. Here's how to practice the 4-7-8 breathing technique, as reported by Healthline:

"1. Allow your lips to gently part.

"2. Exhale completely, making a breathy whoosh sound as you do.

"3. Press your lips together as you silently inhale through the nose for a count of 4 seconds.

"4. Hold your breath for a count of 7.

"5. Exhale again for a full 8 seconds, making a whooshing sound throughout.

"6. Repeat 4 times when you first start. Eventually work up to 8 repetitions."

Continue your routine of winding down and limiting caffeine, but substitute just reading instead of TV. Any electronic screen can affect your quality of sleep. I also open this up to any readers who have had success falling asleep naturally.

Dear Annie: A few weeks ago, a letter ran from a person who seems to have tried everything to get in shape, from gym memberships to personal trainers, and asked, "How do people stick with it?"

I don't know how others do, but I'm willing to share how I have. I graduated from high school nearly 50 years ago at 98 pounds. I now weigh 127 pounds. I had a baby in those years, too. So, how have I managed to only gain 29 pounds in 49 years?

Lots of small things: Walk for a mile every night after dinner (it's good for your waistline and your marriage). Park toward the back of the parking lot and walk all the way in. Dance (think "The Twist") while watching an entire 30-minute television program (it's hard to eat while doing this, and it burns a lot more calories than just sitting there). Think "just five minutes" of exercise: Do sit-ups, jumping jacks, pushups, toe touches or rope skipping for just five minutes. It's not a major commitment. Think of it as "I deserve this five-minute break for a tiny bit of exercise."

At a restaurant, ask for a box when your food first comes. Put half of your meal in right then. Once it's in the box, even if you're tempted to clean your plate, you will have only eaten a healthy portion. Get a watch that gives you "stickers" for physical activity. Yes, I know, it sounds silly, but I really wanted those stickers on my paper as a child, and I enjoy earning stickers on my watch now.

None of these are big things. But lots of small things do add up. — Still Slender 50 Years Later

Dear Still Slender 50 Years Later: Congrats on your continued health. Just about anyone could use your suggestions to jump-start their wellness routine. That they are playful and provide opportunities to connect with others is especially beneficial.

"Ask Me Anything: A Year of Advice From Dear Annie" is out now! Annie Lane's debut book — featuring favorite columns on love, friendship, family and etiquette — is available as a paperback and e-book. Go to http://www.creatorspublishing.com for more information.
